Aunt Fran adored Joe DiMaggio of the NY Yankees often recalling the story about the day after WWII that he visited the VA Hospital (while she was napping in the nurses lounge after a long shift). Wishing not to disturb her, the other nurses decided not to wake her which Fran lamented for the last 70 years. She continued watching the Yankees until her last day.

To all who knew Fran, she was the very symbol of the greatest generation, putting others before herself and generous beyond words. Somehow, and just when you needed it most, a check would show up in the mail. A sweeter or more giving person you will not find. They just don't make them like her anymore. Most importantly, to her many nieces and nephews, Aunt Fran was a second mother insuring they never missed any important events or vacations. How lucky they felt to have had her blessings.

To all Fran's caregivers, to Dr. Eva Lange , Dr. Beverly Borlandoe and Dr. Aliasgar Chittalia, our deepest gratitude from Fran's family who know she survived the past 3 years not only from their excellent care but from the love and compassion offered her daily, just as she provided to her VA patients.

The only pain she ever caused was when she left us.

Fran is survived by her sister, Anne Ellis and 18 nieces and nephews including 5 great nieces and nephew 4 great great nieces and nephews whom she loved dearly.
